DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, line 1 the phrase "such as" creates a limitation within a limitation making the claim indefinite.

In claim 1, line 2 "each equipment" has no antecedent basis.

In claim 1, lines 2-3 "its front panel" has no antecedent basis.

In claim 1, line 3 the phrase "such as" creates a limitation within a limitation making the claim indefinite.

In claim 1, line 5 prior to "recording" replace "a" with --the--.

In claim 1, line 6 "the slot" has no antecedent basis.

In claim 1, line 7 "its original position" has no antecedent basis.

In claim 2, line 4 "the opposite ends" and "the rear side" have no antecedent basis.

In claim 2, line 5 "the middle" and "the rear side" have no antecedent basis.

In claim 2, line 8 "the rear side" has no antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yoshihiro in view of Nakao et al.

Yoshihiro discloses a dual switch in a compound device combining two equipments such as a disk device and a video device including slots for each portion of the device and includes two switches 12a,b on base plate 11 and a button 13 capable of selectively actuating either switching means to take the recording medium out the respective slots.

Yoshihiro does not disclose the button having resilient means responsive to removal of pressure from the button for returning the button to its original position.

Nakao et al teaches a button to operate two devices in figures 7-10 including two switches 230,240 located on board 46 to be operated by rocker button 200 having resilient means formed by the rods 201 extending into the slots 226 for returning the button to its original position when pressure is removed from the button.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to apply the teachings of Nakao et al to Yoshihiro to utilize the button structure of Nakao et al because this is for the purpose of reducing the number of parts forming the switching device making a more reliable and affordable device.

Allowable Subject Matter

Art Unit: 2832

4. Claim 2 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

5. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art does not teach or suggest a support traverse to the opening in the front panel for supporting the resilient support leg of the button.

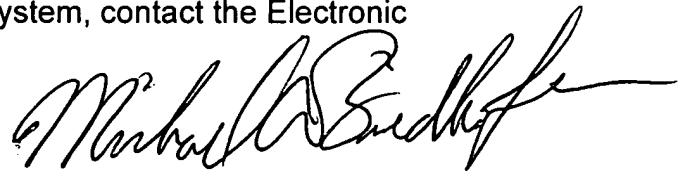

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Eberhardt et al, Nordstrom, Sugawara et al, Yamada, Ikunami, Levendis et al, Patterson, Yoshida, and Kubota et al teach various rocker button structures for operating separate switches.
